

October 28, 2021

Dear Senator Schumer, Senator Gillibrand, and Congressmembers Clarke, Espaillat, Jeffries, Malliotakis, Maloney, Meng, Nadler, Torres, and Velazquez,

We, the undersigned students from New York colleges and universities, implore you to provide permanent new operating funds for our bus and subway systems. And, after languishing under the Trump Administration, we urge New York State to do everything in its power to implement Congestion Pricing without delay. Proper investment in public transportation will help fix historic inequities, deliver racial justice, and combat climate change.

Since the Reagan-era backlash to the civil rights movement, the US government has invested overwhelmingly in suburban highways and neglected transit in our cities. The unfair “80/20” split between federal highway and transit funding has helped create a $176 billion public transit maintenance backlog. Underfunding has left NY with the slowest buses in the country, often unreliable train service, and infrastructure at serious risk from climate change impacts.

Now, with New York’s college students returning to in-person classes and relying on public transportation to get there, we’re calling on Congress to invest $3 billion in annual funds to New York and we’re calling on the state to move Congestion Pricing implementation forward immediately. Both initiatives are needed to transform transit by delivering faster, more frequent, more affordable service to riders on a regular basis. Students, commuters, and all working class New Yorkers deserve mass transit that works for them.

Signed,
