(Albany, N.Y.) Armed with bags of beverage containers that are not redeemable and citing a recent report released by the DEC, a broad coalition of over 300 groups today delivered an urgent SOS message urging legislative action to modernize and strengthen the state’s “Bottle Bill.” In its Solid Waste Management Plan (released in December), the DEC predicted widespread landfill closures over the next two decades and recommended that the state shift to a “circular economy” – one that relies on reducing single-use materials and enhancing recycling. In a letter to the legislative leaders, the groups urged action to strengthen the state’s most effective recycling system and thereby reduce solid waste and litter, support thousands of marginalized workers, boost small businesses and green entrepreneurs, and increase revenues for the state.

The groups released a “Message in a Bottle” to all state lawmakers. The “message” to support modernization of the bottle law was inserted inside a bottle that was unredeemable under state law and which had all the characteristics of a beverage container covered under the law (New York required deposits on carbonated beverages and water bottles, not similar beverages such as ice tea and sports drinks).

In a letter to the state’s elected leaders, the groups wrote:

“we collectively urge that modernization of the four-decade-old Bottle Bill be an end-of-session priority. The Bottle Bill has had a successful track record in reducing litter and boosting recycling. It needs to be improved to respond to the solid waste changes that have occurred over time.”

In addition, the groups released a review of trash collected during Earth Week. The groups’ analysis of the litter cleanup at 16 locations statewide, 64% of containers found were non-deposit. More data results? More than half the bottles found were single-use plastic.

Background on Solid Wastes Disposal in New York

- According to the DEC, the state’s landfills are likely to close no later than 25 years from now and as early as 16 years. The DEC recommended that the state strengthen the Bottle Bill among its policy recommendations.
- An increase of the deposit from 5¢ to 10¢ would result in a huge increase of redemption rates (~20%), as has been shown in other states.
- Investing in reuse and refill systems would decrease waste across the lifecycle of the bottles.
- The organization Reloop has estimated that modernizing the Bottle Bill would divert 5.4 billion containers from the waste stream each year.

Supporting Cannery and Small Businesses

- The Bottle Bill creates environmental justice by diverting waste and litter from overburdened communities and supporting people who can’t access traditional employment. Cannery workers are essential workers, yet today in NYC they earn around $5/hour on average, or less than a third of the minimum wage, according to a 2023 study performed by Sure We Can. The estimates are that there are 10,000 New York City residents that collect deposit containers for their income; supports people who can’t access traditional employment
- At least 50 redemption centers have closed many citing the “freeze” on revenues – due to the failure to change the state’s “handling fee” – while costs have increased over the past fifteen years.

Increasing Revenues for the State

New York local governments could save over $70 million resulting from lower solid waste disposal costs if the Bottle Bill modernization legislation is approved. The state could see up to $200 million in additional revenues.

The groups called for passage of Senate bill S.237-C and Assembly bill A.6353-A, which would:

- Expand the beverage containers covered under the law to include containers for sports drinks, non-carbonated drinks, wine, and spirits;

- Raise the deposit fee to a dime (it has been a nickel since 1983); and
- Raise the handling fee for those who handle redeemed beverage containers (it has been stagnant at $0.035 since 2009).
- Reduce single-use beverage containers
- Implement a grant program to help redemption centers and small businesses increase the use of technologies to make it easier for the public to redeem covered beverage containers.

Blair Horner, NYPIRG Executive Director, said, “New York State’s environment is sending a ‘SOS’ to Albany for action on its solid waste crisis. Lawmakers must act this session. The state’s ‘Bottle Bill’ has been a tremendous success, but it needs an update as recommended by the DEC. There is no time to waste.”

Ryan Castalia, Executive Director of Brooklyn-based nonprofit Sure We Can, said, “An update of New York’s Bottle Bill is drastically overdue. While lawmakers argue amongst themselves, the state’s best recycling system is on the verge of collapse, and the waste piles higher in our communities. The Bottle Bill reduces waste, supports essential marginalized workers and small businesses, and creates green jobs, while generating revenue for the state at no cost to taxpayers—yet still suffers from incredible and inexplicable neglect. Expansion just makes sense, and the stakes are too high for inaction.”

Laura Ladd Bierman, Executive Director, League of Women Voters of New York State, said, “The Bottle Bill is one of the most effective recycling and litter prevention programs in New York State, but after 40 years it’s time for an update. Modernizing this bill to curb plastic pollution in New York State would offer social, economic, and environmental benefits, from reducing projected greenhouse gas emissions to the creation of thousands of jobs. The League of Women Voters of New York State urges lawmakers to support the passage of the Bigger Better Bottle Bill.”

Alexis Goldsmith, Organizing Director, Beyond Plastics, said, “This bill will reduce litter by ensuring almost all bottles have a refundable deposit. Critically, it also takes the first step to moving away from single-use materials. Mere decades ago, beverages were sold in refillable bottles with deposits, a system that has been replaced by single-use bottles. Coca-Cola has announced it will refill 25% of its bottles by 2030, and this bill would require them to meet that commitment. This Bottle Bill begins to bring back refills with deposits.”

Ellen Weininger, Director of Educational Outreach, Grassroots Environmental Education, said, “This long overdue modernization of the state’s 40-year-old bottle bill will provide major economic, environmental and health benefits to all New Yorkers, decreasing the solid waste stream, reducing the toxic pollution and greenhouse gas emissions, providing much needed relief for municipalities and creating thousands of job opportunities. That’s a win-win for everyone. Grassroots Environmental Education urges support for the Bigger Better Bottle Bill this session.”

Re: Modernizing New York’s Returnable Container Act (“Bottle Bill”) & Increase Redemption Rates

Dear Governor Hochul, Senate Majority Leader Stewart-Cousins, Assembly Speaker Heastie, Senate Minority Leader Ortt, and Assembly Minority Leader Barclay:

The undersigned organizations write to express our strong support to modernize New York’s Returnable Container Act, commonly known as the “Bottle Bill.” As you undoubtedly know, the state’s Department of Environmental Conservation has reported that the state’s solid waste disposal system is in crisis – with landfills possibly closing as early as sixteen years from now.

In the DEC’s report, “New York State Solid Waste Management Plan, Building The Circular Economy Through Sustainable Materials Management,” makes numerous recommendations to forestall those landfill closures and to move toward a “circular economy.” Among those recommendations is one to modernize New York’s most successful recycling and litter control program – the “Bottle Bill.”

We agree and urge you to act.

It’s time to update the law to include popular non-carbonated beverages, wine, spirits, and hard cider. Expanding the type of beverages in the Bottle Bill deposit program will result in billions of bottles being diverted from landfills and incinerators. A recent national report found that redemption rates are estimated to increase up to 90% if the expansion of beverage types is coupled with an increase of the redeemable deposit value to a dime.

As such, we collectively urge that modernization of the four-decade-old Bottle Bill be an end-of-session priority. The Bottle Bill has had a successful track record in reducing litter and boosting recycling. It needs to be improved to respond to the solid waste changes that have occurred over time.

An expanded Bottle Bill will further reduce pollution, especially plastic pollution, all while lifting up workers in the recycling and redemption industry. States with a bottle deposit are 46% more likely to recycle PET plastic bottles than states without. An expanded Bottle Bill stands to increase New York's recycling rate for covered materials by over 20%, and to generate between $40 million and $200 million in additional revenue annually to the state. Crucially, expansion will provide badly needed funding for communities that face low redemption rates due to inadequate access to retailers and redemption centers, as well as strengthen infrastructure to make participation in the system easier for consumers, collectors, and businesses.

Enacted in 1983, the 'Bottle Bill' requires a nickel refundable deposit on eligible beverage containers to encourage their return for recycling, which reduces litter and waste. Modernization of the 40-year-old Bottle Bill will further enhance litter control (most notably in underserved lower-income communities), stimulate recycling efforts, and encourage the use of refillable containers. States with Bottle Bills have a much higher recycling rate than states without.

New York's redemption system is lagging behind other programs nationwide in its achievement of critical waste diversion. The state needs to modernize this effective program for the next 40 years so that we put an end to bottle litter and waste and grow New York's "circular economy."

As you know, the Bottle Bill has achieved its original goals. The Bottle Bill has:

- Reduced litter in communities, waterways, and along beaches;
- Increased recycling rates; and
- Contributed to a funding stream for important environmental programs.

There are three important steps needed to modernize the law:

- Expand the number of beverage containers covered by the Bottle Bill. New York would not be the first state to include non-carbonated beverages, wine, and liquor. Maine's Bottle Deposit Law includes all containers covered in New York's existing Bottle Bill plus wine, spirits, hard cider, and most non-carbonated beverages. Maine has a 5-cent deposit for all beverages, except wine and liquor, which have a 15-cent deposit. Other states with Bottle Deposit Laws that include non-carbonated beverages include Connecticut, California, and Oregon.
- Increase the amount of the deposit to a dime. The impact of the nickel deposit that was approved in 1982 has eroded over time. A mere inflation update would likely make that deposit nearly fifteen cents. To ensure that those who wish to redeem their deposits can easily do so, we need a portion of the additional revenues collected by the state to be used to ensure better compliance and enhance access to redemption entities. Oregon has already increased deposits on beverage containers to 10 cents, leading to an immediate increase in recycling redemption rates.
- Support redemption programs. One problem that has become so severe that the system is on the verge of total collapse: the $0.035 handling fee that redemption centers rely upon to offer their services, and which can't change except by law, simply isn't enough to support these essential businesses in the face of rising costs. Many redemption centers have closed and more will close every day. Without redemption centers, the system will cease to function, and this unredeemed container material will return to our streets.

Raising the handling fee is a critical first step in bringing the system to a modern standard, and it needs to happen as soon as possible.

There are many reasons to support the above measures, but three are most important:

First, expanding the Bottle Bill increases New York's recycling rates and reduces litter. Over its 40-year history, New York's Bottle Bill has been the state's most effective recycling and litter prevention program. According to the Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC), the Bottle Bill reduces roadside container litter by 70%, and in 2020, 5.5 billion containers were recycled. Further, litter is not adequately cleaned up as often in low-income neighborhoods as in more affluent neighborhoods. Enhancing the Bottle Bill will reduce litter across the board, including in underserved neighborhoods. Lastly, waste reduction merits priority before recycling in the waste management hierarchy. Expansion of the Bottle Bill could help incentivize the use of refillable containers since manufacturers are required to handle used single-use containers.

Second, expanding the Bottle Bill reduces municipalities' waste burden and their solid waste disposal expenses. Municipal curbside programs and bottle deposit programs are more effective together and create a comprehensive approach to recycling. They also stop the practice of dumping tons and tons of bottles into local landfills, some of which are at or near capacity. In a report prepared by DSM Environmental Services Inc. for the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection, a bottle bill modernization was estimated to reduce costs for Massachusetts municipalities, even after netting out potential lost revenue. Municipal recycling programs are particularly struggling with glass breaking in their recycling streams, making the rest of the materials much more difficult to recycle. Enhancing the Bottle Bill would take additional glass bottles out of curbside bins. Even when recyclable materials are not contaminated by broken glass, the costs of recycling containers that are not covered under the state's Bottle Bill are too high for many municipalities. For example, the costs associated with collecting and processing PET plastic bottles and glass per ton are higher than revenues per ton for scrap material.

Third, modernization stimulates job creation and eases consumer access. Adding containers and a higher deposit and handling fee will create new jobs and benefit redemption center workers. Redemption center workers have not seen a raise from the recycling handling fee since 2009, despite increased expenses for such workers due to inflation. And, because of a lack of state support, many redemption centers are struggling to stay open. It will also be a boon to the thousands of often poor, immigrant, elderly, or homeless "canners" that clean up empty containers from the streets and have driven the efficacy of the redemption program for 40 years. Investing a portion of the additional revenues collected by the state to ensure better and more uniform compliance and expanded access to redemption opportunities will enhance equity and allow currently underserved communities to more fully benefit from this historically effective law.

We urge your support for this important environmental and economic justice initiative. Approval of the "Bigger, Better Bottle Bill" (A.6353-A/S.273-C) will bolster the state's efforts to reduce litter, enhance recycling, create jobs, lift up canners in disadvantaged communities, expand equity, and ease consumer participation.

Thank you for considering our request, and we look forward to working with you to ensure a cleaner environment. If you need additional information, please contact Blair Horner at NYPIRG (bhorner@nypirg.org).

Total Beverage Containers Collected, Deposit vs. Non-Deposit

Out of the 1,445 beverage containers collected during our audit, only 35.6% were containers currently included in New York's Bottle Bill. Meaning, over 60% of bottles collected do not have a deposit. This shows us a clear impact modernizing and expanding the Bottle Bill will have on redemption rates among all containers

Total Litter Collected, By Material

Out of the 14,113 pieces of litter collected during our audit, 6,295 pieces were plastic. Meaning plastic outnumbered all litter we found across New York 2:1. The Packaging Reduction and Recycling Infrastructure Act would require companies to reduce their packaging by 50% in 12 years and make the remaining packaging truly reusable or recyclable.
